Andover League Plumps For Key Ballot Questions

Banners are flying, stickers proclaim political preference and the rhetoric of candidates flows abundantly, but the League of Women Voters has discovered that little attention is being given to explanations of referenda questions that will confront voters on Nov. 8.

To correct this imbalance, Mrs. Milton Ratynski, the League's ballot question chairman for Greater Lawrence, made the following comments this week about why the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts is supporting Questions 1, 2 and 4. She pointed out that both key political parties also favor a "YES" vote on these three questions.

Mrs. Ratynski's statement: Question 1. Joint Election of Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

"This question provides that at state elections candidates for governor and lieutenant governor be grouped on the official ballot as a unit from the same political (Continued on Page 17)

Three PA Ins Attend Outside

Three Phillips Academy instructors left Andover last weekend to participate in conferences and dedication in Berkeley, New Haven and St. Louis.

Hart D. Leavitt, instructor in English, gave the keynote address at a conference on Writing and the Power of Observation sponsored by the University of California at Berkeley. His speech, "Instant Reality", opened the three day series of meetings which was offered as an extension service program for teachers in the San Francisco area.

Leavitt is co-author of a paper-back text, "Stop, Look and Write," which goes into the technique of utilizing photographs as a tool in the teaching of composition. The theory is that effective writing depends primarily on accurate observation and the use of concrete and specific detail. The PA instructor is also senior editor of the 12th grade composition text published by Science Research Associates, one of a series of six books designed for use in grades 6-12.

Other speeches at the conference included "The Teacher as Critic of Student Writing", "Improving the Writing of the Disadvantaged", and "Perception and Imagination in the Writing of Elementary School Children".

H. Schuyler Royce, instructor in history and acting school psychologist at the Academy, attended the regional meeting of the Association of Asian Studies at Yale on the same weekend. The instructor teaches a course in Asia at PA as well as one for the Evening Study Program on China. He has been director of teaching fellows and dean at the Institute of Asian Studies at Thayer Academy and is coordinator of the PA Chinese program which offers introductory Chinese to secondary school students from the Andover area.

Also out of town last weekend was physics department chairman, Peter Q. McKee, who flew to St. Louis Thursday to dedicate the new Clifford Willard Gaylord science building at John Burroughs School. In his speech before educators and representatives from industry, he discussed the evolution of science teaching in secondary school education.

Howell Stillman Urges Early Sewer Extensions

Howell S. Stillman, 15 Juniper Rd., has urged the Selectmen to think seriously about immediate extension of the municipal sewer system in Andover.

Stillman, former president of the Bay State Merchants National Bank and a former official of the Andover Taxpayers Assn., told the board in a letter that there are "several hundred reasons" why he thinks immediate extension of the system should be considered.

Reporting that there have been 1200 septic tanks installed in Andover in the past ten years, Stillman estimated that these tanks alone are receiving 336,000 gallons of sewage daily.

He warned that some of this waste, along with that from the hundreds of other septic tanks in town (including insoluble detergents) will eventually find its way into Haggetts Pond and Fish Brook.

Commenting on a private sewer article being readied for presentation at the special Town Meeting on Nov. 21, Stillman said:

"Someone has said that those asking for the sewer are more interested in a sewer than a new school. Such a statement is not valid. Personally, I am in favor of both and we can well afford both. The proposed new South-east School and the suggested sewer could both be had at a total cost for the first year of $186,000 - less than two dollars on the tax rate.

"Were I given the choice between the new school and the sewer of a new town hall, fire station and police station, I should choose the school and sewer."

PA Headmaster At Shawsh

John Kemper, headmaster Phillips Academy, will speak members of the Shawsh PTA at their American Education Week program Nov. 9.

He will discuss the education ideas of Dr. Kurt Hahn and their application to the Outward Bound program originated by the German-born educator.

Hahn's theory, broadly stated, is that if you want to develop character in the young you put them into character building situations that will require a display of courage, honesty etc. Until forced to flee Germany, Hahn applied these ideas to the program for boys' school in Germany with the hope that the right kind of education could rid his homeland of Prussianism.

He was later asked to devise survival training school for the British Merchant Marine during World War II and it is this program, civilianized, that has become known as Outward Bound.

In addition to announcing the program for its November meeting, the Shawsh PTA has released its plans for the balance of the year.

Other programs are scheduled as follows: Dec. 7, the Christmas message from Rev. Erle Alger pastor at Lawrence Street Congregational Church, Lawrence; Feb. 8, a Father's Night program arranged by Joseph Dorsey, Andover High School gym coach; March 8, Dr. John Scalora speaking on Remembrance Reading; April 12 Children's Night as arranged by Miss Anne Harnedy, principal; and June 14, the graduation banquet and awarding of diplomas.

Fly Tyers Sweeping Country

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)
What do you think a fly tyer is? While you wrestle with this one, we'll pass along the news that there are at least 75 tyers in Andover and growing legions of them across the country.

They are organizing and federating and deliberately plotting to spread their philosophy across the land, these devotees of the fine art of angling with artificial bait. But these fly tyers are no ordinary fishermen. They are artists and entomologists and conservationists, men who are probably considerably more familiar with what the May Fly wears in spring than they are with the annual fashions in Easter bonnets.

Their enthusiasm is contagious. Talk to one and it won't be long until you are thinking of stocking up on rooster hackles and fur swatches and spools of brightly colored thread — these and the other essentials for the fisherman who makes his own bait.

The cult has an eloquent spokesman right here in Andover, A. I. (Pal) Alexander, who lives at 14 Osgood Street, has just been elected a director of the Federation of Fly Fishermen at the national convention held in Jackson, Wyoming.

He is a past president of Andover Fly Fishers and currently, director of publicity for United Fly Tyers Inc. of Boston. In addition, he free lances for a number of fishing magazines.

Alexander can brief you on the history of organized fly fishing — the Andover club is six years old and the Federation, little more than a year — but he talks about the past with equal versatility. He can document the history of fly fishing as far back as the 1400's and pull book after book from his collection of several hundred on fishing to illustrate that the old timers knew a great deal about the making and use of life-like bait.

What sells men like Alexander so completely on fly fishing? They regard it as a superior form of recreation, as the most sportsmanlike and enjoyable method of fishing and the most consistent with the preservation and wise use of game fish.

When they are like Alexander, they shun what he calls the Opening Day Stampede when "fishermen" stand elbow to elbow along the Shawsheen and every other stream where a trout might still be hanging around. "They're out meat hunting," says Alexander and he wants no part of it. Real fly fishermen are gentler souls. The day outdoors, the challenge that goes with trying to deceive and the excitement of working to land him in that instant before he realizes the deception are what captivate the fly men.

The catch is NOT the thing, Alexander says he can match with the same trout for two or three hours, trying different baits to tempt his palate, and lose the battle with a minimum of disappointment. That wasn't the way it was when he spent more time golfing than angling. A bad shot, and his temper was ruined for the day, he recalls.

"Delusion is the thing," Alexander explains. "If the trout rises to your bait, you've succeeded, even if you fail in the catch." Most experienced fly fishermen pull in more fish than they could hope to eat anyway. And this is where the conservation angle comes in. They toss them back for someone else to catch, causing the fish no agony (they are not subject to pain) and preserving the dwindling numbers of good fish, trout especially, that survive in streams warmed by the tide of civilization. Trout like cold water, but there is less and less of it where trees are cut and homes built and the nature of the countryside changed, Alexander reports.

"PAL" ALEXANDER ties some brightly colored feathers together to make a fly that will be fish bait.

FLY TYERS

This is why fly men are federating to spread the word and convert bait fishermen. The fish who gets hold of natural bait knows its the real thing so when he is hooked, he is hooked internally. There is no throwing him back after that.

Alexander describes fly fishermen as "die-hards." "I fish from the first of the season to the end," he says. And then begins a winter of talking fish and making flies. Club members compare notes and argue about whether color is more important than shape (Alexander personally believes the size and shape of the bait is what attracts the fish) and make trips into Boston for lectures by fishing experts. For the man who takes fly making seriously it is quite a scientific procedure. Alexander has a notebook full of data about the size and shape and color of such favorites as the May Fly through every period of its life span. No real fly man would be foolish enough to try to hook a trout with a dun when it is spinner time . . . and so it goes.

Men who get caught up in this hobby inventory large collections of feathers and furs and colored threads to use in making the great varieties of bait they carry along on fishing day. Alexander says he must have 2000-3000 flies of one sort or another. He carries 500 or so with him in the field, but this plus a three ounce rod, still doesn't make for much of a load - just one more thing, he boasts, to recommend fly fishing, over forms of angling.

Mrs. Margaret Berry divides her time between South School and the Children's room.

Great Books

The next discussion by the Great Books Group will be at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 1 in the children's room of the Memorial Hall Library. The topic will be Essays of Michel Eyquem de Montaigne. Montaigne lived from 1533 to 1592 and what makes him pertinent for discussion today is his thoughtful consideration of perennial issues and questions. Does he think unwillingness to die and fear of death are the same thing? And are they? Is it possible to enjoy life and disdain death at the same time? In his short essay on discussion he seems to be almost indifferent as to which opinion wins and this of course gives rise to the question "What is the purpose of discussion?" This should make for an interesting exchange of views for a group whose purpose is discussion.

Only five of the essays are to form material for the discussion. They are: "To the Reader," "That to Philosophize is to Learn to Die," "Of the Education of Children," "Of the Inconsistency of Our Actions," and "Of the Art of Discussion."

South Church Reports Two New Appointments

Rev. Dr. Robert L. Rasche of Topsfield has been called by the board of deacons at South Church to serve as interim minister following the resignation of Rev. Dr. Russell G. Schofield.

Dr. Schofield's regular duties as a full time professor and chaplain at Lesley College in Cambridge prevent his continuing in the local position. His resignation has been accepted effective Oct. 30.

Dr. Rasche will commence his new duties on Oct. 31, following completion of his interim pastorate at Ward Hill Church in Haverhill. Before that he was for many years minister of the Second Congregational Church in Beverly.

The board of deacons also announced the appointment of the Rev. Thomas E. Dipko of Swampscott as director of youth activities at the South Church. Mr. Dipko has wide experience in youth leadership and has served recently as assistant minister of the First Congregational Church in Swampscott. He will begin work Oct. 29. Members and friends will have an opportunity to meet Dr. Rasche and Mr. Dipko at a coffee in Fellowship Hall following the worship service on Sunday, Nov. 6.

Camp Fire Girls

The Horizon Club, whose membership is made up of senior Camp Fire Girls from Andover and North Andover, reports that it is well underway into a series of fall activities. The group, which meets bi-monthly in the evenings, has already devoted service hours to the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

At a meeting early this month they elected officers for the year.

Marcia Anderson was named president and representative to the Horizon Club cabinet of the Greater Boston Council. Other officers are: Georgia Anderson, vice-president in charge of public relations; Karen Nelson, secretary and Priscilla Young, treasurer. The club advisor is Mrs. Chester Kopatch.

Fifteen girls received Brownie pins at the recent investiture for Girl Scout Troop 84, West Parish Church.

Receiving one year stars were Susan Blanchard, Pamela Eaton, Marilyn Messina, Lois Radula, Jean McAdams and Nancy Webster.

Leaders for this group are Mrs. James G. Hedrick Jr. and Mrs. James Stamas. Second and third grade girls from West School who wish to join a Brownie troop should contact Mrs. Hedrick.

Church Sorority Will Initiate

Alpha Phi Chi Sorority, South Church, will initiate several new members at its next meeting, Nov. 10.

Following the 8 p.m. ceremony, a film about the Elton Home for orphans at Elton College in North Carolina will be shown. The sorority has had a special interest in this home for the past two years, "adopting" a child annually to receive gifts and letters.

DASA manufactures an automatic telephone dialer, for the telephone industry in the U.S. and abroad. Its Datacall products serve as an inexpensive means of composing and transmitting messages for use in telegraph data communications.

A recognized authority on sales management, Chapel developed marketing programs for Xerox products. Before joining Xerox, he was senior branch manager for Acme Visible Records.

Earlier, he was chief of research for U. S. Army Ordnance, a president of Time-Saver Business Systems.

For several years, he was professor of marketing at the University of Pittsburgh, where he previously received his Ph.D. Other degrees were received from Duquesne University and the University of Chicago and he is author of two books, Scientific Sales Management and Sales Control.

A Fellow of the Society for Advancement of Management, he is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Economic Assn., the American Ordnance Assn., and the Independent Telephone Pioneer Assn.

Shakespeare Is Topic
For Enrichment Lecture

A special lecture on Shakespeare's style and his "Taming of the Shrew" will be given at Andover High School Saturday for elementary students in connection with the public school enrichment program.

Speaking will be Mrs. Anthony F. Juarez, a former teacher of English in Winchester and North Andover and a substitute teacher in local schools for the past two years. Mrs. Juarez was a Pendleton Scholar at Wellesley College.

"The Taming of the Shrew", written by Shakespeare about 1595, is one of his best-known and most successful of plays. An appreciation of the farce of Petruchio taming his rebellious, perverse and impudent wife, Kate, is best achieved by seeing a stage production. However, the young theatre goer, unversed in Shakespeare and unfamiliar in general with live theatre, will enjoy the play more if he has some knowledge of what to expect. Elizabethan English, spoken rapidly in a large theatre can sound like a foreign language to the uninitiated. The program planned by Mrs. Juarez for Saturday is designed to help students revel in the hearty fun that is fundamental to "The Taming of the Shrew".

State Discusses
Bass-Bird Swap

If plans presently being negotiated by director James Shepard of the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Game bear fruit, a "look-alike" for an extinct bird may be introduced on Nantucket Island.

The heath hen, extinct in Massachusetts since 1932, and the sharp-tail grouse found in western states look very much alike. South Dakota has offered to swap 100 sharp-tails for 15,000 smallmouth bass fingerlings, a fish not presently found in that state. Shepard has agreed to the swap provided the fingerling bass can be provided over and above our own needs. They'll come from rearing ponds in the Harold Parker state forest, Andover. While the sharp-tails will come in one shipment, the bass will be shipped piecemeal over a three-year period.

Shepard feels there's little likelihood that Bay State bird hunters will be gunning sharp-tail grouse anytime soon, but it's an interesting experiment to see if the birds will thrive.

Incidentally, another bit of wildlife horse trading is beginning to bear fruit. Wild turkey populations in the Quabbin area doubled in the past nesting season, causing wildlife officials to feel that turkey introductions are no longer experimental.

Davey Working For Ted Buczko

Vincent P. Davey, 23 Enmore St., was recently appointed coordinator for the re-election campaign of State Auditor Thaddeus "Ted" Buczko.

Buczko, a Salem resident, is a graduate of Norwich University and received his LLB at B. U. School of Law.

He served four years on the Salem City Council and was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature for six years. He served previously as acting postmaster for the City of Salem and has been State Auditor since 1962.

Davey, a former member of the Andover School Committee, was a candidate for 12th district representative in the September primary.

YES - Three Times

There will be three referenda questions on the November 8 ballot that have the blessing of both the Democratic and Republican parties.

Each proposes an amendment to the Massachusetts Constitution that would contribute to the organization of a state government better equipped to cope with 20th Century responsibilities.

The first suggests so logical a reform that it seems incredible it has not been instituted before. If the public responds affirmatively, voters in future contests will cast a single ballot for governor and lieutenant governor, guaranteeing that the state's two top officials will be spokesmen for the same political party and proponents of the same platform "accountable to each other and the public."

As it stands now, it is possible to have a governor and lieutenant governor who are at odds politically and personally. When this happens, the lieutenant governor is almost certain to be relegated to the role of a figure head, a luxury this state cannot afford. Any man who must administer a multi-million dollar government operation needs the help of an assistant he can trust with valuable administrative assignments.

Question 2 would permit the governor to submit proposals for reorganization of the executive branch in such a way as to "clarify and standardize the lines of authority and responsibility." Theoretically the state's chief executive presides over a "corporation" of 20 departments. In fact, however, he is called upon to administer the activities of some 316 boards, commissions, departments, agencies, divisions and authorities which report to a variety of "bosses", only a handful of whom are appointed by the governor in office.

No administrator could be truly effective in the face of such a hodge podge.

The third proposal for a Constitutional amendment, appearing as Question 4 on the ballot, is designed to improve the effectiveness of both local and state governments. It would return to the cities and towns "the right of self government in local matters," even permitting them to amend local charters without the approval of the General Court.

Establishing the right of Home Rule would not only prevent the legislature from enacting special laws affecting a single community without a request from that community, but it would free the General Court of about 20% of its work load. This should permit more careful consideration of measures directly related to state problems.

Each of the three amendments outlined makes sense for the Commonwealth. We recommend "YES" votes for them on November 8, Questions 1, 2 & 4.

Waiting & Watching

The School Committee wanted to be certain, before it sat down for its first collective bargaining session with Andover Education Assn., just how broad support is for this organization of public school teachers and administrators. Now it knows.

Last Thursday 215 of the 234 persons eligible to vote indicated through an election conducted by the State Labor Relations Commission that they want to be represented by the AEA. Only ten teachers cast ballots in opposition.

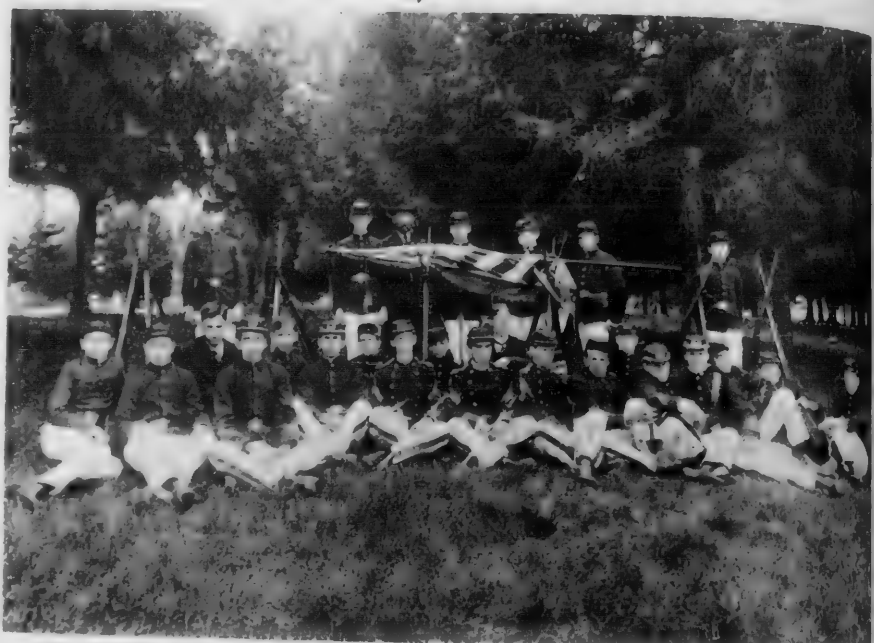

From here on in the School Committee must regard AEA as the voice of its staff. Its members must be prepared to negotiate with an avowedly militant organization, one that intends to involve itself in far more than discussions of wages and hours. Whether or not what results benefits Andover's education program and the children that are exposed to it can depend a great deal on how both the school policymakers and their employees approach the new relationship.

School Committees have not always been politic in their handling of what until recently was the Andover Teachers Assn. On the other hand, the leadership of the professional group has not always represented the staff in a professional manner. In some years there has been open hostility.

What must be achieved now is a balance between co-operation and power. The teachers have said, through their organization that they are no longer "content to sit passively by while policies are deliberated and established by others" . . . that they "demand a forum and an opportunity to be just as constructively critical as situations may warrant."

This can be all to the good providing the association does not come to believe that because its opinions are heard they must necessarily prevail. It remains the responsibility of the School Committee to function as the employer, to hear all suggestions and proposals for policy positions and determine which are not only desirable but fiscally feasible.

It can be an exciting time for education in Andover if from a piece of collective bargaining legislation can come the means to more fully involving the whole of the school department's professional staff in a concern for the quality of schooling dispensed here.

The public expects the School Committee to create the climate for a free exchange of ideas. And it will be waiting for the Andover Education Assn. to demonstrate that when it is "constructively critical" it has more in mind than take home pay.

A GOP Chance

Republicans appear to have the best chance in years to elect a Fourth District candidate to the State Senate.

It is fact of political life in the district that Republicans cannot win this seat unless they nominate a strong candidate from Haverhill. Because it is the most populous municipality in the district, its vote is large enough to determine the outcome of the Senatorial election. To win, Republicans need a Haverhill candidate strong enough to cut down the large majority Democrats can count on when Republican opposition is weak.

This year Republicans nominated Frederick H. Malcolm of Haverhill, the strongest candidate they have put up in years.

Malcolm is a successful business man, able and personable, and he is conducting a vigorous campaign. He appears to possess the qualities necessary for effective district representation at the State House. He also appears to have vote getting appeal in Haverhill, enough to enable him to win if he gets the solid support he deserves from Republicans throughout the district.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Without conferring with me, you have misrepresented my position in your October 20th issue of the Andover Townsman.

The truth is I am yet unable to arrive at a "contention" concerning the Southeast School Site and long range sewer proposal. We are all still waiting for facts and answers to questions from the Board of Selectmen. Mr. Wayne Long's study in depth and contentions would appear to have considerable long range merit. What are the comparison cost effective analysis figures the Selectmen, town manager, and his entire staff have developed? To produce these figures properly must be a complex and long range analysis. Sewerage is evidently the crux of this situation since all involved town boards, town manager, and professional consultants were in agreement prior to percolation test on the White property. Dollar costs of major and alternate sewer routes linked with bussing costs are an integral part of making this study and decision.

These questions are still unanswered:

1. What is the long range dollar difference involved in bussing of children at various southeast school sites?

2. What does the Planning Board think and will the Selectmen consider these thoughts before making the Selectmen's decision?

3. What effect does the Planning Board think a sewer extension will

Mrs. Fred H. Perry and family left for New York Thursday afternoon to take passage in the family steamship "Iroquois" of the City Line for Florida. Mrs. Perry does not feel the cold weather driving her own civic affairs, then it must be the mocking birds calling her South. On account of the condition of roads in the Bailey district it is almost impossible for the farmer to market their produce as the roads are such that a person is liable to be thrown by his team when it is dark. We are told, this is a free country; the farmer thinks it is a free country for some to do as they please with the hard earned money the farmers pay in taxes.

4. How does the Board of Health think concerning the obvious need to sewer Southeast Andover?

5. Is the Finance Committee going to be asked to voice their opinion on financing of a long range sewer proposal?

6. Is it imperative to again exercise the rough hand of eminent domain when land is available without using force?

Responsibility to propose and recommend is squarely the Selectmen's. However, the town voters and I need all the facts in order to make an intelligent decision.

Richard H. Moody

12 Suncrest Rd.

Editors Note: When asked last week who was working with him in support of his proposal to get article in the Warrant calling for construction of a sewer line and an elementary school in the Rocky Hill Road section, Wayne Long replied that Mr. Moody and others were supporting his activities.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Andover is again indebted to its Townsman for striking a telling blow for good government in its editorials "A Guaranteed Right" and "A Futile Cry" both in the Oct. 1 Issue.

Whatever the merits of town manager government, we should realize that it, in common with other things, has the vices which are concomitants of its virtues. It has the ability to remove day to day government from some of the aspects of some kinds of politics, by the same token it can be used by elected officials to avoid responsibility by using its principal delegate as a front man to divert attention from undone home work, propagation of schemes for favored groups and other forms of incompetence.

At town meeting where the elected officials allow their delegate to do the talking we have reason to believe that the selectmen are incompetent for supporting whatever matter is under discussion.

As has been mentioned before, the adequate correction for this situation is the adoption of the proper by-laws, those that make officials accountable in town meeting. One rule would be that the selectmen's delegate may speak only at the pleasure of town meeting. Another is that the selectmen be elected after town meeting instead of before.

These would put the horse in front of the cart where town meeting would have control instead of allowing town meeting to be controlled by the horse.

The present habit of officials using the "executive session" denouement may stem mostly from their notion that if the towns people do not know enough to manage their own civic affairs, then it must follow that they don't know enough to be members of any officials' meeting. That is some more of the price we pay for selling our birthright for a bowl of soup in the name of efficiency, so to speak.

have on the rate of growth in Southeast Andover?

4. How does the Board of Health think concerning the obvious need to sewer Southeast Andover?

5. As the Finance Committee going to be asked to voice their opinion on financing of a long range sewer proposal?

6. Is it imperative to again exercise the rough hand of eminent domain when land is available without using force?

Responsibility to propose and recommend is squarely the Selectmen's. However, the town voters and I need all the facts in order to make an intelligent decision.

Richard H. Moody
12 Suncrest Rd.
Editors Note: When asked last week who was working with him in support of his proposal to get articles in the Warrant calling for construction of a sewer line and an elementary school in the Rocky Hill Road section, Wayne Long replied that Mr. Moody and others were supporting his activities.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Andover is again indebted to its Townsman for striking a telling blow for good government in its editorials "A Guaranteed Right" and "Futile Cry" both in the Oct. 19 issue.

Whatever the merits of town manager government, we should realize that it, in common with other things, has the vices which are concomitants of its virtues. Tho it has the ability to remove day to day government from some of the aspects of some kinds of politics, by the same token it can be used by elected officials to avoid responsibility by using its principal delegate as a front man to divert attention from undone home work, propagation of schemes for favored groups and other forms of incompetence.

At town meeting where the elected officials allow their delegate to do the talking we have reason to believe that the selectmen are incompetent for supporting whatever matter is under discussion.

As has been mentioned before, the adequate correction for this situation is the adoption of the proper by-laws, those that make officials accountable in town meeting. One rule would be that the selectmen's delegate may speak only at the pleasure of town meeting. Another is that the selectmen be elected after town meeting instead of before.

These would put the horse in front of the cart where town meeting would have control instead of allowing town meeting to be controlled by the horse.

The present habit of officials using the "executive session" device may stem mostly from their notion that if the towns people do not know enough to manage their own civic affairs, then it must follow that they don't know enough to be members of any officials' meeting. That is some more of the price we pay for selling our birthright for a bowl of soup in the name of efficiency, so to speak.

Turning now to the editorial on "Dignity Demanded" it can be said that when elected officials are so disrespectful of town meeting as to meet in secret, fail to get the town report out on time, etc., then the voters, by being rude, are merely replying in kind to the example set by the selectmen. When are they going to get the message?

Karl Haartz
60 High Plain Rd.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Seldom if ever have the dignified pages of the Townsman vibrated with the purple prose of a super-charged class struggle.

Your reprint, last week, of an editorial from the teacher association's AEA Voice is clear revelation of a new and militant breed of teacher in Andover.

Their declared purpose is to make education make progress in Andover. Yet the war they have just declared it to be waged outside the classroom arena.

What they really want is power. This they are determined to achieve through applied pressure. Their bombast is prompted by self-pity, infused with pomposity and promoted through turgid rhetoric.

If this is educational progress, who needs it?

Anyway, wasn't it all said so much better over a century ago by those famous warriors who declared: "Workers of the world unite! You have nothing to lose but your chains?"

party, and it will not be possible to vote for a party's candidate for one office without voting for the same party's candidate for the other.

"The League of Women Voters supports Question 1 because it feels that joint election would assure continuity of policy and cohesiveness in administration, and will produce a greater responsibility and accountability in the two top state officers to each other and to the people.

Question 2, Executive Reorganization.

"Passage of this amendment would allow the governor to submit proposals for improving the administration of the executive branch through reorganization of the more than 316 units now under his jurisdiction. There are provisions for mandatory committee referral, public hearings, and a committee report.

"A "Yes" vote will, in the opinion of the League, provide the machinery to unify and strengthen the administration of the state. Question 4, Home Rule.

Men To See Asian Show

Guests at the annual Men's Night of the Shawsheen Village Woman's Club Nov. 7 will be transported briefly to Indonesia, that chain of some 3000 islands that extends from the Indian Ocean to the Pacific.

They will be served an Indonesian buffet dinner at Andover Country Club, see an illustrated travel lecture and fashion show and watch as a group of Indonesian women demonstrate the dances of their homeland.

Entertaining will be Alexander Celosse and a group of fellow Indonesians who have settled in the Boston area. They came to the United States, some by way of Holland, as a result of political unrest in their country and have since performed at a number of places in the Greater Boston area.

On the menu will be a coconut cocktail, beef chunks cooked with minced onions, and soy sauce, fish fritters, pickled vegetables, a banana pudding and Java coffee, along with several other items.

During the fashion show members of Aneka Wirama will show dresses from various islands and regions of Indonesia Celosse will narrate the film story of Indonesia, its people and their arts and seven women from his country will demonstrate the candle dance originated by the Manangkabau people of Central Sumatra.

Aneka Wirama is the Indonesian Cultural Activities Group of Boston. It was organized about a year ago when the Celosses and an Indonesian Army officer got together a number of Indonesian students and Indonesian-born U.S. citizens. Out of this meeting came a successful appearance at the annual ball of Boston's International Institute, followed by engagements elsewhere.

The organization was formed with the idea of increasing appreciation for the diversity which exists in the world and creating greater understanding of the values of other peoples and cultures.

While husbands are especially welcome at the Shawsheen meeting, members are urged to attend with or without escorts. The program committee reminds members to mail their reservation cards early to Mrs. Cornelius Shea or, if they did not receive a card, call Mrs. Sue Ann Hutchinson.

Hostess chairmen for the evening will be Mrs. Cornelius Shea and Mrs. Thomas Neil.

ELECT - FRED MALCOLM

State Senator Equipped To Lead -

Like you, I have been dissatisfied with the record of the Massachusetts legislature in recent years. I feel strongly that the time has come to remove government from control by politicians and special interests and restore it to promoting the welfare of all the peoples.

Our District is burdened with chronic problems of lost industry, blighted mid-town areas and a polluted river, which like the state-wide problems of inflationary spending and constantly increasing taxes require effective and progressive leadership to correct. I pledge to you that I will work to restore responsible government in Massachusetts, and I encourage other concerned citizens to join me in this campaign.

Your support and vote is urgently needed.

dents at the school of education, University of Massachusetts, on Oct. 20 and 21.

Thirty people were invited to attend the workshop on the basis of their leadership in the area of education and guidance of superior students, participation in state and national organizations devoted to this purpose, or their concern about superior students. University educators, State Department of Education officials, school administrators, and guidance directors and counselors made up the group of thirty participants.

Conducting the workshop were the directors of Research and Guidance Laboratory for Superior Students at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. John W. M. Rothney and Dr. Marshall P. Sanborn used in the workshop case studies and findings from eight years of research on secondary school students from throughout the state of Wisconsin. The research findings also included follow-up studies on a number of superior students.

The workshop was sponsored by the United States Office of Education. Arrangements were made by Dr. Ronald H. Fredrickson, school of education, University of Massachusetts.

Lutheran Manifesto Urges Study Of Church Mission

A 16-point "Manifesto" to be read Sunday at Faith Lutheran Church will begin a period of self-examination and renewal at the church as well as in 6,217 other congregations of the Lutheran Church in America.

Rev. Hartland H. Gifford, pastor of Faith, said the manifesto consists of a "check list" of characteristics that a congregation alert to modern times must consider.

The document will be read from the pulpit on Reformation Sunday by Arthur C. Wood, evangelism committee chairman, and then studied and discussed with the help of material being prepared by the LCA executive council.

In announcing the reading of the manifesto, Pastor Gifford said the LCA-approved document and related two-year study were formally instituted at the church's national convention last June in Kansas City. The document is the result of a previous two-year study initiated at the LCA convention in 1964 when the delegates expressed a concern that some congregations may have lost touch with modern changes in private and community life and so ordered a detailed study of the nature and mission of the congregation.

Among other points, the manifesto urges the congregation to greater cooperation with other Lutheran and non-Lutheran bodies. It urges recognition of the "drastic increase in the proportion of youth in the population," and asks the congregation to increase efforts to "promote justice, to relieve misery, and to reconcile the estranged."

The manifesto also demands thorough examination of the congregation's inner, spiritual life, urging members "to be the family of God in which those who suffer the bruises of life can find support and help, the complacent and stirred, and the creative and venturesome are encouraged."

Finally, it calls for regular examination of the congregation's organizational life "to make sure that every part of it is an authentic expression of the Gospel and contributes to the fulfilling of its mission."

"The manifesto is part of a church-wide look at itself," said the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, LCA President. "I hail it with joy and gratitude. It has the potential for immeasurable good."

Study materials are being prepared to help LCA congregations strengthen themselves in terms of the mandate.

Church Plans Art Exhibits

The Unitarian-Universalist Church, 244 Lowell St., has initiated a program focusing attention on the many creative endeavors of its members.

This program began Oct. 15 and will continue throughout the year. Oil paintings, charcoals and pastels will be exhibited in a gallery, hall and church proper. The selections will be changed every three to four weeks to allow those interested to show their works.

Benjamin E. Hodgson of Methen will show his seascapes in various other works for the next few weeks. Mr. Hodgson has been painting for about six years and has studied locally with Mrs. Lane Grande.

In addition to the work of church members, objets d'art representing the great religions of the world will be displayed in the alcove of the church beginning about the first of the year. The display, religious and cultural, will be open to the public and it is suggested that those interested in the religious art watch the paper for scheduling.

Church To Serve Harvest Dinner

Christ Church will serve a old fashioned Harvest Dinner at the Parish House Saturday, Oct. 5 from 5 to 7 p.m.

Turkey, roast beef, home cooked vegetable casseroles and appetizers and cakes will be on the menu.

If adults set youth the proper example, it might be possible for young people to follow their lead.

SUMMARY

The Act imposes a temporary tax upon all retail sales of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the selling price. Sales of certain items are exempted from the tax, including but not limited to sales of food products for human use, articles of clothing, prescription medicines, agricultural machinery and certain publications. The statute contains specific provisions relating to the registration of vendors, the filing of returns and the payment of the amounts collected by such vendors. Vendors may apply to the State Tax Commission for abatements of the amounts owed where they believe such amounts to be excessive, and decisions of the Commission on such applications may be reviewed by the Appellate Tax Board. The Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation shall have the usual powers and remedies provided for tax collection for the collection of the taxes imposed by this section. The State Tax Commission shall issue regulations necessary for proper administration and enforcement of the section.

The Act further imposes a temporary excise upon the storage, use or other consumption in Massachusetts of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the sales price of such property. Sales upon which the retail sales tax described above has been imposed, or which are exempt from the retail sales tax, shall be exempt from the use tax. Sales upon which a tax has been paid in another jurisdiction shall also be exempt. Assessment, abatement and collection of the use tax shall be governed by the provisions which relate to the tax upon retail sales. The tax upon retail sales and the excise upon storage, use or other consumption shall be effective during the period from April 1, 1966 to December 31, 1967.

Each qualified taxpayer shall be entitled to a credit of four dollars for himself, four dollars for his spouse and eight dollars for each qualified dependent, but such credit shall not be allowed if the taxable income of such individual and his spouse exceeds five thousand dollars for the year. In addition to the taxes described above, the Act provides for new excises upon certain banks; new taxes upon the income of certain corporations; new taxes upon cigarettes; a room occupancy excise upon rent paid for the use of hotel rooms and other lodging places; and excises upon sales of certain alcoholic beverages.

The Act creates the Local Aid Fund for the purpose of providing educational assistance, and authorizes the periodic distribution of amounts from such Fund to the cities and towns. In addition, the Act contains a variety of provisions relating to the program of State aid to public schools, and to its administration.

QUESTION NO. 6

The Manzi Personnel

Join the Dodge Rebellion Operation '67 now at Manzi Auto Sales, Inc., located at 10 Carver Street at South Broadway and Merrimack Street in Lawrence. These new Dodge cars are fresh off the drawing board, bigger and longer, with new styling and luxury. Manzi has all the new models on display; the Monaco series, Polaras, Coronets, Darts and Chargers. They have 60 or 70 new cars on hand at all times which enables you to choose from a wide selection of models. If you prefer, you may order your new Dodge to your own specifications. All new Dodge cars carry a five year or 50,000 mile guarantee.

The Dodge Monaco line introduces a youthful new look and feel into the world of long luxury automobiles, a full six inches longer than last year. The Polara is surrounded with all new beauty and fancy functional features, such as plush, foam-padded seats and deep pile carpeting. The Dodge Coronet hard-top and soft-top models have an unusually long list of standard items. The Dodge Charger is America's only full-sized fast-back, distinctive and debonair. And the compact Dodge Dart is completely restyled with extra room and comfort.

Manzi Auto Sales started with Dodge in 1956, located on Methuen Street in Lawrence. Last year when the city took the property for Urban Redevelopment, Manzi Dodge moved to its new location with an all new facility, including a complete Service Department. Their new Service Manager, John Greenwood, has an enviable record of 35 to 40 years in the automotive field. Dodge Certified Car Care starts at the factory where the emphasis is on quality control and is continued by Manzi Auto Sales' fine Service Department.

Stop in soon and see these new Dodge cars, including sedans, convertibles and station wagons. They also have a fine selection of dependable used cars. Manzi Auto Sales is open Monday through Friday from nine to nine and Saturdays until five, now at their new and only location at 10 Carver Street, at South Broadway and Merrimack Street in Lawrence.

Cut Spending Say Taxpayers

Seven out of ten Americans want to reduce federal government spending to control inflation. Eight out of ten express concern about inflation.

Two out of three say they have been hurt by it. One-third feel they are worse off financially than a year ago. These are some of the results released this week from a major national opinion survey taken in early October by the Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N. J. The study was commissioned by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Given a choice between the two, 71% of the respondents favored a cut in federal spending rather than increased taxes (7%).

Compared with earlier surveys, the latest ORC poll also shows that there is growing concern about inflation with its consequent rising prices and reduced purchasing power of the dollar.

Almost half (48%) of the respondents report they are "greatly concerned" and this concern is evident in all segments of the population, regardless of age, occupation, educational level, or where they live.

Six in ten say they are fighting their own private war against inflation by changing shopping habits . . . cutting down, buying cheaper foods, substituting, designating heretofore "necessities" as "luxuries".

"I walk around the store a long time before I buy anything today." (Woman, over 40, Midwest)

"I look for some things to take the place of other things - some things are just too high." (Woman, over 40, West)

The survey also demonstrates that the effects of inflation are being felt more seriously by the elderly and those with lesser education. More than four in ten, 60 years and older, report that they are "worse off today" than a year ago.

Respondents sometimes talk of holding two jobs - even three - in their efforts to stay above the rising tide of prices:

"I have a hard time making it on my salary sometimes. I think I'll need a second job." (Woman, under 40, West)

"I hold two jobs and one is very poorly paid. If things go much higher can I work three jobs?" (Man, under 40, South)

More than twice as many people blame inflation on the Government than on any other group. Twenty-eight per cent feel Government is "most responsible" for inflation, compared with 6% blaming Business, 10% blaming Labor, and 10% the people themselves. A rising 41% admit that they "don't know" where to lay the blame, although there is much less uncertainty expressed about what to do about it.

Since last spring and reflected in previous ORC opinion surveys, there has been an increase among those favoring federal spending cuts.

Alumni Council Holds Meeting

The Phillips Academy alumni council gathered for its annual meeting last weekend with James P. Baxter '37 presiding. The subject for the weekend program was "Off Campus Educational Experience for Andover Boys - What Is the Purpose and What are the Possibilities?"

Among the speeches heard by council members were those of Simeon Hyde Jr., chairman of the faculty steering committee, Barry C. Phelps '49, president of B. Phelps & Co. of Chicago, and Charles W. Liddell '39, who directed the United South End Settlement in Boston.

Saturday morning a member of the Exeter faculty and two students discussed opportunities in government in connection with an internship program which Phillips Exeter runs in Washington, D. C. for a group of its students during the school year.

Council members then met in small discussion groups to further explore the possibilities for students to broaden their education through a variety of summer work or in-term work experiences. Among discussion leaders was Gilbert H. Hood Jr. '16, former alumni council president and alumni trustee.

School Site Meeting Scheduled For Nov. 21

The Selectmen have scheduled the second special town meeting in as many months for Nov. 21. Voters will be re-called to consider acquisition of a site for the long-planned Southeast School.

The board agreed this week to open the Warrant at noon on Nov. 7 and close it at 4:30 p.m. the same day.

No decision has been made yet about which of three possible sites the Selectmen will recommend to the voters. The board was of a mind immediately after failure of a site article earlier this month to re-approach voters with the same proposal - a request for $100,000 to purchase and develop land off Bancroft Road.

They are collecting data now, however, on a location at the corner of Orchard and Main Streets and updating information on the much debated Town Owned - White farm land off Rocky Hill Road.

They heard at a meeting Thursday from R. Wayne Long of South Main Street who proposes to place two articles in the Warrant himself if the board cannot be persuaded to ask for construction of a $800,000 sewer line to the Rocky Hill Road site and a school on the White-Town land. Offering not only a "cost effectiveness analysis" but information about safety hazards in the unsewered area, Long told the board that his plan would represent a tax-rate savings over a 20 year period. Manager Richard Bowen objected to the fact that Long had not included figures for the additional sewer operating expenses that would be incurred annually if the system is extended and said also that land development costs were not considered.

Raytheon Tops Fair Share Goal

The United Fund quota has been met and passed and the drive isn't over yet! This was the word Wednesday at Raytheon Co.'s Hawk missile installation in Andover.

Local personnel have pledged or donated gifts in excess of the UF goal of $197,000. Current pledges and contributions are in excess of $109,000, and 10% of the pledge cards distributed have yet to be returned.

Because of the cooperation of its employees, Raytheon-Andover has been a United Fund award winning organization.

The plant now has over 1,000 continuous fair share contributors.

The purpose of the visit was to tell educators about a Bell System's program which gives outstanding science students and their teachers an opportunity to see current scientific projects in a laboratory setting.

Chief Issues Fresh Warning

Home experimentation with explosives can be dangerous, Fire Chief Henry Hilton has been issuing warnings of this nature repeatedly, despite the growing enthusiasm for amateur science projects.

He illustrated his point this week with reports on an accident in Shawsheen which resulted in the loss of a portion of a hand for one thirteen-year-old boy.

The teenage youth and a friend were working in a cellar lab, making gunpowder. One boy warned the other that he was grinding the mixture too hard with a pestle, minutes before an explosion which filled the small room with smoke. The injured youth lost a thumb, index finger and part of his hand.

Chief Hilton said this week that the boys involved are highly intelligent and well informed about chemicals. But he added that this incident proves once again what can happen when inexperienced youths are left alone to handle explosives.

"Last year a fellow hunter was accidentally killed. My wife insists that I do not go hunting this year. With a family of three children, I see her point. Does a Hunting Accident policy pay all medical costs, plus death benefits up to $20,000, or even $50,000?"

Editorial Comment

The Governor

For the first time in its history, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts will elect its executive branch.

The man who succeeds our Governor will be elected to shape, promote and execute the policies of the Commonwealth confronted with two-year terms.

Because of his gubernatorial duties, the Governor deserves this opportunity.

A comprehensive tax program, a fiscal responsibility — is what the people of Massachusetts have the sort of political courage to demand.

For Candidates

The world has become so complex that such a factor in its future progress for men of limited capacity is essential.

We must send to Washington men of broad in their outlook and experience, best for the people of Massachusetts, also best for the United States.

Andover voters have an obligation to men.

The first is Edward W. Brooke, Jr., who will open this year's Senate seat open this year. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall. The second is Bradford Morse, representative of the Congressional district.

Brooke, as Attorney General, has shown they are capable of calm and steady qualities that must be part of the make decisions about matters of domestic but international proportions. The TOWNSMAN gives both men.
